2018

Congratulatory speech

It may seem that to build a successful career is akin to solving a complicated equation with too many unknowns. How to understand what field is best for me? How to find the first job? What skills and knowledge do I need? What skills are the most competitive? Where can I gain experience? How to draw the attention of desired employers? How to fulfil their expectations? What opportunities can the companies provide, and how to use them?

I am sure that many of those entering the job market are riddled with similar questions. However, if you are here at KTU WANTED Career Days 2018, your career plans will become less obscure. During the event, the experts and the representatives of companies and organisations will share their knowledge and experience, will speak about the good practice examples.

I believe that after the Career Days the solutions and answers to the questions about starting your successful career today, will be within a hand's reach. All you will have to do is to show initiative and persistence, and to believe in yourself.
